

Wind Storm Does Much Damage in Kingston

Several Buildings Damaged by Wind of Almost Hurricane Proportions Which Continued to Blow Four Hours—Street Lighting System and Telephone Service Interrupted—Many Signs Flattened—Hospital Skylight Lodged in Tree.

A wind storm that assumed almost the proportions of a hurricane broke over Kingston and Ulster Thursday night and early this morning leaving in its wake unroofed buildings, fallen trees, broken wires and wrecked shutters and blinds from buildings. The wind started blowing about 11 o'clock Thursday night and by 2 o'clock this morning it was estimated that it was blowing a velocity of from 65 to 75 miles an hour. The storm began to abate about 3 o'clock.

At the City Home on Flatbush avenue the wind unroofed a large section of the rear of the building, over the men's quarters. About fifty feet of the roof and cornice was carried by the wind over the top of the building and dropped into the front yard. The large flagpole in front of the City Home was also broken off.

Damage At Ice Plant.

About 3 o'clock this morning the roof on the building of the Kingston Coal and Ice Corporation on Wrentham street was partially blown off and the falling roof damaged the ammonia plant, causing the building to be filled with the fumes. A still alarm was sent to the fire department and Deputy Chief Fred Leverich and several men armed with gas masks responded and entering the building turned off the flow of the ammonia.

Landslide on Abel Street.

Police headquarters were notified at 11 o'clock Thursday night by George Schumann of Eddyville that a large boulder had fallen into the road on Abel street, this side of the city's welcome arch. Superintendent Van Keuren of the board of public works was notified and sent a force of men to clear the road of the slide. By morning the men had the street cleared of the large rocks and boulders, loosened by the frost, which had rolled down working half of the street. The men worked all night armed with crow bars which they used in moving the boulders and rocks from the road.

Superintendent Van Keuren said that his men were also busy removing a large tree that had blown down on South Wall street and the tree that had been flattened on Pine street. On Fair street a large limb had been blown down from one of the large trees, and on Franklin street, near the church, another large limb had been torn from a tree.

Hospital Skylight In Tree.

As the wind increased in force during the night it seemed to rock many houses in the city, awakening the occupants. Everything loosened on porches and in the yards was whirled around by the heavy wind. Blinds were torn loose from houses and buried into the yards. At the Kingston City Hospital the wind carried one of the skylights and lodged it in an adjoining tree.

Street Lights Out.

The heavy wind caused a total interruption in the city's street lighting system from 1:30 to 1:37 o'clock this morning due to system trouble on the high tension line which brings the electric current into the city.

There were also minor interruptions during the night and early morning caused by the wires being carried down by trees flattened by the wind. On the Saugerties road there was considerable trouble with six poles carried down by the wind. Street lighting circuit No. 7, which covers Washington avenue and vicinity was turned off for the night. The trouble was caused by a large tree which fell carrying the electric wires with it.

The Kingston Gas & Electric Company office stated this morning that it has always been the custom to close for residential and business houses circuits first, and that this morning all of the trouble had been cleared up.

The electric company had crews of men working all night repairing the damage caused by the wind.

Telephone Service Interrupted.

The high wind also interrupted local telephone service, but not to an extent as anticipated, as only between fifteen and twenty stations in the city were placed out of communication.

Big Window Blown Out.

The large plate glass window in the upstairs branch post office was blown out and crashed into bits as it struck the sidewalk. The glass had been cracked near the bottom for some time and in this weakened condition was unable to withstand the pressure. Martin Hagenbecker, assisted by firemen from the Fair street engine house, boarded up the window.

Many Signs Down.

A large sign on the Foxwood shirt factory building on Broadway at 1940 Court was blown from the roof, landing in the street below.

Burton Cline Hurt in Fall

Barge Captain Stumbled Over Rope and Is Hurled From Deck of His Boat Into River at New York. Flashed Out and Brought Home.

Captain Burton Cline was hurled from the deck of his barge in New York harbor on Wednesday afternoon when he stumbled over some rope on the deck and landed in the water. Those who saw him go overboard went to his assistance and fished him out and he was hurried to the Lincoln Hospital, where a scalp wound was sewed up and his other injuries attended. Thursday he had recovered sufficiently to be moved and was brought to his home at No. 26 Post street.

Signal to Sound If School Is Closed

Occasional snow storms render it difficult for teachers and pupils to attend school without endangering their health so the board of education has devised a means of imparting to school attendants whether or not sessions will be held on days in question.

By arrangement with the Kingston fire department, on days when snow blocks the streets a "no school" signal will be sounded by the gong at fire headquarters. The signal will consist of three strokes on the fire alarm bells. The bell will ring at 7:45 in the morning and again at 8:15. The signal will mean that school will not be held in the morning. If congested conditions caused by the storm still exist at noon, a signal will be given at 12:15 which will signify that afternoon sessions will not be held.

The signal will be used only for exceptionally severe snow storms and will apply alike to public and parochial schools.

Business Certificate Filed.

Minnie Totelman of 616 Broadway has certified to the Ulster county clerk under the assumed name business law that she is conducting a business in Kingston under name and style, "Broadway Bazaar."

Black's Garage was Blown Down.

On Fair street a large branch was blown down across the electric lights wires but fortunately the wires were not broken.

From various sections of the county come stories of large advertising signs blown down. Along the Saugerties road were several signs down and also a number of trees.

No Damage in Southern Ulster.

Supervisors Edward Young of Marlborough, James E. Heaton of Plattekill and Luther Dushmore of the town of Gardiner who were in town this morning stated that the wind had been very severe but no damages had been reported.

Most of the telephone trouble was experienced in the rural districts, and especially lack of Saugerties where five poles on the toll line were leveled to the ground by the wind. Throughout the county scattered telephones were placed out of commission by falling wires. It was stated that all trouble would be repaired today and full service restored.

Fire Department Ready.

Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy, realizing the danger in case a fire broke out while the wind storm was in progress had the members of the paid department ready to answer to any alarm that might be turned in, but fortunately no fire broke out.

Deaths Covered Streets.

The high wind tore branches from trees all over town and the debris covered sidewalks and streets.

To Repair City Home Roof.

The damage caused to the roof of the City Home during the storm will be repaired at once by the L. L. Lashman Company who have been awarded the contract by the charity board.

Cashier's Window Broken.

The large sign hanging in front of the place of Edward Cashin on East Street was torn down by the wind and landed against the big plate glass window, cracking it.

Wind Damaged Smoke Stacks.

Two smoke stacks were damaged by the wind. The twenty-foot stack on the Delaware Avenue Garage was blown completely off the building and a portion of the thirty-foot stack on the R. L. Lashman house yard several were missing this morning when the workers arrived.

Browning Sued by Newspaperman

Growing Out of Alleged Charges of The Kidnapping of Mary Louise Spas—Girl in Her Own Right Is Suing For $500,000.

New York, Feb. 4 (AP).—Edward West Browning, real estate man, today was under $10,000 bond in a newspaper reporter's libel action "to prove that a newspaper man's reputation is as sacred" as that of a member of any other profession.

Browning was technically under arrest for more than two hours yesterday before his lawyers provided bonds for his appearance in a $250,000 suit brought by Arthur Lee Mofford, a New York tabloid reporter.

The reporter's suit is one of a series pending against the real estate operator, whose recent separation suit against his wife at White Plains attracted wide attention.

"The benefit that you can't libel a newspaper man is a general one," said Bernard H. Sandler, counsel for Mofford, "although it has no foundation that I know of. To my knowledge this is the first case of this exact character."

"We're going to show this 'great big wolf' man" that the character of a newspaper man is just as sacred as anybody else's."

Mofford is suing to recover on alleged charges of Browning that the reporter kidnapped Mary Louise Spas, former ward of Browning. The reporter said Browning had threatened him when he took the girl to the office of his newspaper where, he says, she was paid $500 for her story. The girl in her own right is now suing Browning for $500,000.

Appointment of New Ministers

William Phillips Will Be First American Minister To Canada—F. A. Sterling Minister to Dublin and R. W. Bliss Ambassador to Argentina.

Washington, Feb. 4 (AP).—Appointment of William Phillips as the first American minister to Canada was formally announced today at the State Department, coupled with an official confirmation of the selection of Frederick A. Sterling, to be minister to Dublin, and Robert Wood Bliss, to be ambassador to Argentina.

Mr. Phillips, a former under-secretary of state, now is ambassador to Belgium, and his assignment to Canada is in recognition of the importance of the new post.

Mr. Bliss, now minister to Sweden, will be promoted one grade when he takes the ambassadorship to Argentina in succession to Peter Augustus Jay, who has resigned. Mr. Sterling now is counselor of American embassy in London.

All three of the men named for new posts have been in the diplomatic service for years, and the assignments are in conformity with the administration policy of keeping the important foreign diplomatic station in the hands of trained diplomats. It is assumed the existing policy will be followed in selecting a successor to Mr. Phillips as ambassador to Belgium.

The question of filling the ministerial vacancy to Sweden, however, has not yet come up for consideration.

In a statement explaining Mr. Phillips' willingness to surrender his ambassadorship to become minister in Ottawa, the state department said it was because he realized "the importance of the position and the great further service he can render to his government."

"Only a very able man could safely have been chosen to open up a new field like that of our mission to Canada," the statement said. "Only the best among the servants of this government was suited to undertake the work, because relations with Canada are of vital importance to both countries."

"We hold many ideas in common; many problems are common to both. On the friendly and orderly solution of those problems depends the continued growth of that good feeling which is one of the outstanding instances of the ability of neighboring nations to continue unbroken the tradition of peace."

Wiltwyck Chapter Hears Prize Essay

Miss Lillian M. Dorr, High School Student, Receives $5 Prize Offered by Chapter for Best Essay on "The Declaration of Independence."

The February meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., was held at the Chapter House on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. T. D. Lewis, the regent, presiding. Following the usual opening exercises and routine business, the registrar announced the name of Miss Sarah Hasbrouck who was received as a member of the chapter; Mrs. Christine Chambers St. John was also received into membership by transfer from Marvin Reed Chapter of Watford, N. Y.

A very interesting report of the Wiltwyck chapter committee was given by Mrs. Van Ingen, as the chairman of the committee. Mrs. Van Ingen was in attendance upon the National Convention held at the court house, and the report was of the attendance of members of the committee at the high school held in the Kingston high school and to help given cause in attendance. The committee was also attended the reception of the American Legion to new citizens and was in the habit of attending the naturalization court when held at the court house, presenting each new citizen with an American flag and a copy of the Americanization manual. It had also been responsible for the offering of a prize of five dollars in gold for the best essay on "The Declaration of Independence," written by a high school student.

Mrs. Virgil B. van Wageningen reported that Wiltwyck Chapter would hold a food sale at the Rose-Corbin store some time in March, the date to be announced later.

It was decided to celebrate Washington's birthday with a Colonial costume affair for chapter members at the Chapter House.

As Wiltwyck Chapter is now entitled to two delegates to the Continental Congress, the second delegate was elected on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. R. G. Adams being chosen.

The afternoon's program began with two pleasing vocal solos by Miss Edith Holmes who was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Louis S. Coe. Miss Holmes sang "A Lazy Song," by Paul Lawrence Dunbar, and "Temple Bells," by Amy Finck.

Miss Lillian M. Dorr, a senior of Kingston High School, read the prize essay which she had written on "The Declaration of Independence." Not only was Miss Dorr complimented upon the writing of the essay, but also upon her reading of the same, and Mrs. Lewis, the regent, presented her with the prize, a five-dollar gold piece.

The hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. William A. Frey and Mrs. Charles S. Wood.

Miss Dorr's essay, which won the prize, was as follows:

The Declaration of Independence. The constitution of the United States is repeatedly written about and talked about. Yet we seem to neglect another of the most important documents of our glorious nation.

We are all familiar with the acts of the English Parliament and of King George that led to this American Magna Charta. In that second Continental Congress that assembled at Philadelphia on the tenth of May, seventeen hundred seventy-five, were men who realized the importance of such a step as drawing up a declaration of our independence. So the committee of five was appointed, Thomas Jefferson of Virginia, John Adams of Massachusetts, Benjamin Franklin of Pennsylvania, Roger Sherman of Connecticut, and Robert R. Livingston of New York.

The brunt of the burden fell upon Thomas Jefferson who drew up the declaration, although a few alterations were made by the rest of the committee and by the Congress. The document was adopted on the second of July, seventeen hundred seventy-six, formally signed by John Hancock, president of the Congress, and Charles Thomson, secretary, formally adopted on the fourth of July, and signed by the members of the congress on the second of August, seventeen hundred seventy-six.

The document itself is one of the outstanding—the most sublime—results of this Continental Congress. It makes a statement of the fundamental truths that are the basis of every just, fair government in the world today and always. These truths are of one hundred fifty years ago, yet they are as true in our century, not in one century, but in countless ages and centuries to come.

That "all men are created equal, having certain inalienable rights, among which are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness" is a recognized fact today in the land in which we live. Although the idea in those few words threatened once to knock our ship of state on the reef of the Civil War, the obvious justness of the principle, and the fact that it was the basis of equality among men, tyrants may come and go, and all the King George's from now to eternity cannot stir out this universal principle. As the word of God, it stands in our midst, ever old, and never old.

Notwithstanding the fact that "government is for the purpose of assuring these inalienable rights" and that "all just government derives its power from the consent of the governed" was declared in protest of King George's treatment of the thirteen colonies, it is a statement that will be as applicable in the twentieth century as it was in the eighteenth.

Skeleton Found, Probe Started

Cornhusk, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP).—The discovery of a skeleton, imbedded in ground beneath the floor of the old G. B. Reynolds house on the Mill Creek road, near Tioga, Pa., has started an investigation.

The find was made by Earl I. Smith, of Tioga, who was engaged in tearing down the dwelling, which is 90 years old. There is no cellar under this room and Mr. Smith found that a hole had sometime been cut in the floor and later patched up with board. Beneath the stones had been taken away, and part of the skeleton was exposed. Owing to the frozen condition of the ground, it was impossible to dig for the remainder of the skeleton. Certain white marks on the ground and stones look as though time had been put on the body when it was buried.

The remains of two long bones of old fashioned make, apparently of a make for a woman, were also found. Leg bones and part of the skull were shown to a Tioga physician who said they were those of a woman, or a very small man or boy.

Kills Man Who Attacked Mother

Mrs. Enyedi Confesses She Urged Her Son to Kill George Fanchall, Who She Charges Forced Attention Upon Her.

Detroit, Feb. 4 (AP).—Anthony Enyedi, 16, confessed to Highland Park police today that, urged by his mother, he shot and killed George Fanchall, 42, last Tuesday night.

Mrs. Elizabeth Enyedi, 35, corroborated her son's story. Both are under arrest.

She said Fanchall, who was married, had forced attentions upon her at the point of a pistol. She told her husband and son. The elder Enyedi became angry at her but the lad, fearing she would, as she declared, "go crazy and shoot him myself if you do not," saved the barrel from a shot gun, went to the Fanchall home and snuck through a window. Fanchall, sitting in the parlor, received the charge of both barrels in his head and neck.

His mother accompanied him, waiting in an automobile while he did the shooting.

D. A. R. SEEKING BURIAL PLACES OF HEROES OF '76

Campaign to Mark Graves Leads to Search of Cemeteries in All Parts of Country.

Metropolis, Ill.—The Daughters of the American Revolution have begun a campaign to determine the location of graves of veterans of the American Revolution in cemeteries and rural graveyards all over the country. The D. A. R. is asking that all graves be reported that they may be properly marked.

It is believed that more than 100 veterans of the American Revolution are buried in graves in southern Missouri, and that many could be located in southern Illinois and other sections of this state, should the necessary vigilance and attention be given in searching for them.

Following a line of careful inquiry and investigation here the fact stands revealed that this county (Massac) is on the honor roll as a place that has two veterans of the American Revolution buried within its boundaries: one of these being John Smith, the other Ned Henderson. Both these men served in the Revolutionary war in North Carolina and in Virginia; and following its close emigrated to Illinois and, with their wives and children, settled in this county, 13 miles north of here, near what is now the town of New Columbia.

Henderson lies buried in the old Henderson graveyard, two miles west of New Columbia, the cemetery taking its name from the Henderson family, and is the oldest graveyard in this section. Henderson has three great-grandchildren now living here; other relatives died long ago.

Smith lies buried in what is known as the old Wilson graveyard, one and a half miles east of the present little town of New Columbia, 13 miles north of here. A lone cedar is all that marks the spot. Postmaster U. E. Smith of Metropolis, Ill., is a great-grandson of John Smith, American Revolution veteran of this county. Mark and Calvin Smith of this county are also great-grandchildren, and one great-granddaughter, Mrs. J. H. Cagle, is a resident of this place.

Joker Sends Hungry Mob to Strike Leader

New York.—Louis Hyman, leader of the "left wing" element in the cloak-makers' union, has a new grievance. He was seated in his office drafting a denunciation of Morris Sigman, leader of the victorious "right wings," when a motley group of down-and-outers invaded his peace and announced they were ready to be fed and lodged.

"Why should I feed and lodge you?" demanded he.

"Because you advertised," said one, producing a handbill.

"Come all you children of the Lord," it commanded, "to the greatest philanthropic institution of New York and vicinity. Free lodging at the building of the previous joint board, cloak and dressmakers' union."

"Coffee and cakes served free."

"See Mr. L. Hyman, building manager and philanthropist, on the sixth floor."

"Gentle!" shouted Mr. Hyman. "Chairs! Shroelizes! Why didn't they say these'd be free ham sandwiches? You came to the wrong place. You better see Sigman."

Hyman last night had not located the joker with certainty.

Kidskin Regarded Smart for Sports

Comes in Neutral Tones, or May Be Dyed Almost Any Shade Desired.

The sports coat will, of course, be worn throughout the winter season. The passing of the football period in no way diminished the popularity of the sports fur or leather coat that went so proudly to the gridiron. Indeed, the football season but served to introduce the serviceability and smartness of the truly chic sports fur or leather coat.

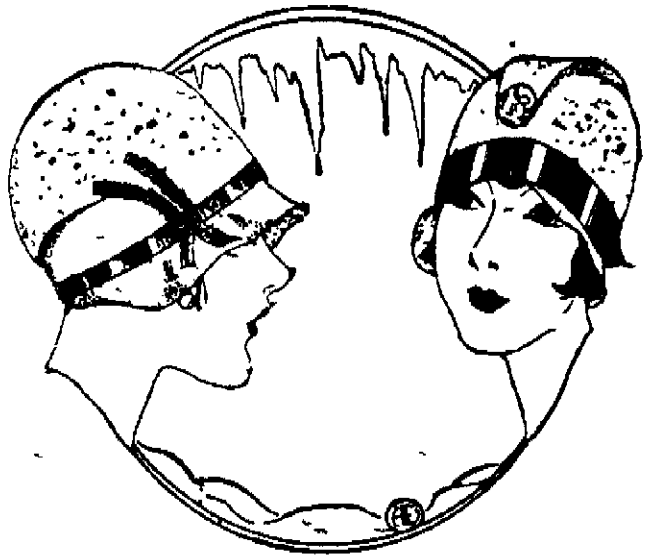

Trim lines are accentuated in the sports models. There is a dash and straightness of line to the informal coat that marks it for youth's own.

And the leather or kidskin coat has entered into a season that demands the unusual in its wardrobe with so much style that at least one coat should appear in the young person's wardrobe.

Kidskins come in natural tones or may be dyed almost any shade. With kasha favored for linings in the sports coat, there is a great chance to introduce color to the sports world. Leather coats strikingly lined in reds, greens, orange, rose and blue appear almost everywhere. These gay linings frequently appear, adding a colorful note to the leather coat in either lapel, collar, cuff or in a general banding effect that is highly satisfying and new.

Black kidskin lined in scarlet presented one of the smartest pictures recently at a sports event, while the white kidskin coat worn by Alice White in her film, "The Runaway En-

Sleeves an Important

Feature of the Mode

Sleeves deserve more than brief mention. In many instances they are of primary importance and lend distinction to a frock that otherwise might escape attention. In studying the new models as they come from the salons of their designers one is struck by the versatility displayed in the creation of sleeves that are individual without being bizarre.

Fullness and width are characteristics of the present-day sleeves but so cleverly is the material handled that there is no suggestion of bulk. The sleeve introduced by a Paris house of world-wide fame has already become famous. One finds it incorporated into wraps as well as dresses, and its wide deep armhole and tapering line to the wrist are exceptionally graceful and flattering.

One of the most interesting developments in sleeve fashions is the use of materials different from those from which the gown is made. Lace, linen, embroidered chiffons and flanne as well as printed velvets are frequently seen in combination with a different fabric and the effect is strikingly smart.

Elizabethan Influence

on English Fashions

The Elizabethan influence on modern English fashions is emphasized by Peter Pettie on the new winter frocks. Short hair is believed responsible for the vogue for neck ornamentation. It is exemplified by high collars fastened with bows or by collars made of strings around the neck. The latter has come in again on a dramatic scale. With light dresses a black velvet band is worn around the neck and is fastened off at the side-back by an immense bow of tulle. The black band must sit closely around the neck in order to give the bow its full value and fairly stiff tulle is used so that it may catch out as much as Queen Elizabeth's ruff. With gray hair, gray tulle is used.

The female of the species is more deadly than the male—especially in this time of collection with mosquitoes. It is the female mosquito that bites people. The male is a vegetarian, subsisting on plant juices and other liquid foods.

SURVIVOR TELLS OF CANNIBALISM ADrift AT SEA

Fisherman Makes Compact With Cannibal Who Died in Helmsman's Craft.

Los Angeles, Calif.—Ell S. Kelly, sixty-nine-year-old fisherman, gaunt and feeble, told a coroner's jury a stark story of adventure at sea. He was charged with responsibility for the death of his companion, James S. McKinley, sixty-three years old, with whom he made a cannibal compact to sustain life when the two drifted more than eight days in a 21-foot boat. The younger man died of thirst and exposure.

Kelly, himself near death, was picked up on Santa Catalina island, where his boat drifted three days after McKinley's death, and taken to a hospital. His clothing hung loosely on his big frame, for he had shrunk from 210 to 120 pounds since he and McKinley set out on their first and last fishing trip together.

Engine Dead, Storm Breaks.
His son, Kelly testified, purchased the yawl, which had been a lifeboat aboard the yacht of Zane Grey, novelist. With McKinley's assistance, a motor was installed, a license obtained and the two embarked December 8 from Redondo Beach.

When they got 16 miles from shore the engine went dead and they were never able to start it again. A storm which developed several waterspouts on Santa Monica bay broke over them before they were able to hoist sail, and huge combers deluged the small craft.

"I Had to Fight Him."

"McKinley was a clumsy man—a big fellow, and he couldn't handle himself very well," Kelly said in explaining how his partner had fallen in the boat and broken one of the galloo water jars.

"I knew our life depended on the little water we had in those jars," he continued, "but I couldn't convince McKinley of that. He drank on the first day out all but one pint of the water we carried."

One Drink Salt Water, Goes Mad.
Kelly described the days that followed and said McKinley insisted on drinking salt water. He added:

"On the third day the old man went stark mad. I had to fight him—not to hurt him or anything, but just hold his hands—try to keep him from hurting me. Twice he was washed overboard, but I reached him and pulled him in."

"After that I guarded the little pint of water which I had saved. I'd stick my finger down into it and rub it across my lips. The other man was pretty bad then. I put him in the cabin and lay down on some sacks."

"After four days of storm we were out of sight of land. McKinley got the idea that I was going to rob him, and I had to fight him off some more. He got better after that and helped me with the sails."

The Agreement.
On the fourth day they made their compact that the one who died first should provide food for the survivor. Kelly said the two stood in the little cabin and shook hands solemnly in agreement.

"I lost the next five days," Kelly continued. "It seemed to me later that we had been out seventeen or eighteen days in all. McKinley died on the morning of the eighth day. I think I had put him in the cabin, and lay down beside him. I couldn't throw him overboard because he was my friend."

Robbers Are Fused.
McKinley, Kelly said, was a quiet, steady man. He had a good head for business and was a good swimmer. He was a good swimmer and had no fear of the water. I remember hitting the water. I went under. I don't know how far. It was just a repetition of the fall. Down, down, down, then everything went black. I don't remember being picked up."

Headache 12 Years;

Surgeon Forgot Needle

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—Alvin Volderberg of Reinbeck has no headache today for the first time in 12 years. He blew his nose and found a half-inch piece of needle in his head.

Twelve years ago, when a soldier in the Philippines, Volderberg was kicked in the head by a horse. A surgeon operated and presumably left part of a needle in the man's head. Recently physicians diagnosed his affliction as brain abscess and forecast his early death.

GIRL SLAYER HAPPY; SWEETHEART LOYAL

Waitress Wronged Twice Kills Her Attacker.

Stanley, N. D.—Shooting to death the man who attacked her and boasted about it, Alice Holtz, twenty years old, a pretty waitress, is happy in jail here awaiting trial because her tragedy has not shaken the faith of her sweetheart.

Alice was engaged to marry Jack Hardwick, a former farmhand of her father's farm and now owner of a barber shop and restaurant. Alice was employed as a waitress in the restaurant.

Late one night Willie Nafus, twenty-three years old, of Sanish, N. D., waylaid Alice while on her way to her lodging from the restaurant. Afterward Nafus returned to the restaurant and spoke slightly of the girl in the hearing of Hardwick.

Hardwick did not believe the story was true, but cautioned Alice about being friendly with Nafus. Unnerved, the girl cried for hours. Then she became desperate. In Hardwick's barber shop she secured a revolver. Following Nafus to a billiard hall, she jerked the revolver from her coat and shot the man through the heart.

She is now being held on a charge of murder while prominent citizens are urging authorities to dismiss the case. But no matter what her fate may be, she is happy, for Hardwick is standing by her.

"I don't want to talk to anyone except my folks about this," she says. "I was afraid I would break down, but now Jack still believes in me and loves me, so I am contented. His love is all that counts with me."

"I didn't believe Nafus but I believe in Alice," Hardwick says.

Dog Braves 40 Below to Carry Plea for Help

Little Squaw, Alaska.—Carrying a scribbled note from two miners crippled by an explosion, a malamute dog crossed a 3,000-foot pass in the Brooks mountain range at night, with the mercury 40 degrees below zero, to his master's cabin here. The injured men have arrived here.

Oscar Otteronix, Little Squaw miner, was awakened at 2:30 in the morning by his dog, Nigger, whining and scratching at the door. A note on the husky's neck read: "Come, both seriously injured. Explosion."

Otteronix had tent the dog to J. S. Shaw and C. Dunlap, who were mining on Tobin creek, beyond the pass. Two men, hurrying over the pass with a sled and a team of dogs, found Shaw and Dunlap badly injured by the explosion of a box of detonators. Dunlap was blinded.

From the Little Squaw radio station, established December 13 by the United States signal corps, 80 miles north of the Arctic circle, word was sent to Fairbanks, Alaska, to rush an airplane to take the patients to a hospital.

Decides to Live While in 175-Foot Death Leap

Philadelphia.—Half way down in a 175-foot drop from the center of the Delaware river bridge to the water is no place to change your mind. In the opinion of Walter R. Church, who attempted suicide from the span.

"I wanted to end it all," he said in a hospital here. "I thought my life was useless."

"When I was in the air, half way down, I changed my mind. But I was in a bad place to change my mind."

"I was a good swimmer and had no fear of the water. I remember hitting the water. I went under. I don't know how far. It was just a repetition of the fall. Down, down, down, then everything went black. I don't remember being picked up."

Pie and Pastry Harbors Smear Lancaster Store

Lancaster, Pa.—Five men with a grudge against one another entered a store operated by Andrew Cogley and purchased his supply of pie and pastry. Lined up on opposite sides of the store, the men began hurling pies, ladyfingers and tarts. Many of the pies landed their marks, landing on the walls.

Cogley contacted the police. They arrived before the ammunition was exhausted and arrested the combatants, Michael and Ralph Southern, Richard Duncanson, Lewis Forrester and Moses Haldeman. Having spent all their money, the prisoners were committed to jail in default of bail to await a hearing on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

Mrs. Cucumbers Green was very busy. As you know Mrs. Cucumbers Green was the play name of a little girl. She liked to be called Mrs. Cucumbers Green more than anything else and her friends and her family called her that a great deal.

She had her play home where her dolls and toys stayed back of the great big bed where she slept and she called this place Four Green Lane.

She had at first called herself Mrs. Green as that seemed a nice, cool, pleasant name, but one day when it was very, very hot she thought how much nicer the name of Mrs. Cucumbers Green would be, so she changed it to that. And that was the name she kept.

It was springtime and everyone had been getting new clothes and Allie and Gussie Goodstone were having their clothes washed so that they would be nice and clean and fresh. Allie's whole name was Allie Goodstone. Her mother's name was Mrs. Goodstone. She was always called Allie for short.

Gussie was an Indian doll and she had been named after a little Indian girl Mrs. Cucumbers Green had once met. The little girl's last name was Goodstone after her tribe.

But now that Allie and Gussie were sitting up, all nicely brushed off, waiting for their fresh clothes to be ironed, they had a delightful little chat.

Allie's little apron and skirt and scarf and jacket and worsted slippers were hanging on the line, and so were Gussie's, but they both rather enjoyed feeling so pleasantly cool as they waited for their clothes to be ironed.

"Well," said Allie, "what is the news?"

Now, of course, there was very little that Gussie could tell Allie that Allie did not know.

Allie knew more than any of the other dolls, for she was so often taken with her mother to parties where only one doll could go.

Having Their Clothes Washed

And Gussie was never jealous of Allie—nor was any of the other dolls.

They all knew that with a doll family one doll can be the favorite and it is quite fair and quite right.

With real children they knew that mothers should never have favorites, but it was really quite, quite different with doll families.

Still Allie had heard her mother's big brother come in the house and say:

"Well, what is the news?"

She thought it rather a fine thing to say.

So she said: "Well, what is the news?" once again.

Then Gussie answered:

"I don't know that I know any special news."

And from then they would begin to talk. For that was just the opening of a conversation.

This was their talk:

"Grannie said this morning that she thought the green of the grass was greener than ever this spring," Allie said.

"She also said that another little crocus had come out this morning," Gussie remarked.

"She said," Allie continued, "that the warm breeze that was blowing would certainly encourage the flowers."

"And she knows," Gussie added, "for she watches every day to see what has happened in the garden since the day before."

"When it becomes a little later in the season," Allie said, "she has a dreadful time keeping up with the way the flowers pop open."

"The even cuts her lunch out-of-doors on the back porch so she can see what happens when the sun is up and at its height," Gussie went on.

"How she does notice and love everything in the garden," Allie said.

"I do enjoy hearing her descriptions of the flowers and the breezes and the garden."

"Where's Mrs. Cucumbers Green, our darling mother, this morning?" asked Gussie.

"She has gone to look for hepatica flowers in the woods," Allie said.

"Maybe she'll find a bit of wild honey-suckle which she loves so much—but I think it's a bit early for that."

"Well, we'll hear about it all when she gets back," Gussie said happily.

And a smile—I am quite sure it was a smile—passed over Allie's dear face as she thought of the happiness that came to the house every time one of the members of the family came back—that was the sort of a family it was, a very lucky family for people or dolls to be in.

GAS BUGGIES—Getting In Deeper.

TALK ABOUT A HOLD-UP! THAT PRATE AT THE GARAGE KNOWS I'M FLAT ON MY BACK, SO HE'S TRYING TO THROW THE HOOKS INTO ME HE POSITIVELY REFUSES TO SEND A MECHANIC AROUND TODAY TO DEMONSTRATE THE CAR TO ANY CUSTOMERS THAT MAY CALL.

REFUSES? YESTERDAY HE JUMPED AT THE CHANCE TO PARK ONE OF HIS LOAFERS IN OUR PARLOR ALL DAY, FOR A DOLLAR AN HOUR.

THAT'S THE SQUAWK. I DIDN'T PAY THAT EGG BECAUSE NO CUSTOMERS CAME TO SEE THE CAR, AND HE DIDN'T HAVE TO DO ANYTHING. NOW HIS BOSS CLAIMS I OWE HIM EIGHT BUCKS. I SHOULD PAY HIM FOR LETTING THAT SNAKE SIT AROUND AND EAT UP MY SMOOKES.

OH, WELL! WE SHOULD FEEL OVER HIM. HE'S NOT THE ONLY MECHANIC IN TOWN.

SET THE PHONE BOOK.... LOOK UP GARAGES IN THE CLASSIFIED ADS. WRITE DOWN A FEW OF THE NEAREST ADDRESSES AND BEAT IT OVER AND PICK OUT A SMART-LOOKING GUY. HURRY UP, I'VE GOT A HUNCH WELL DO BUSINESS TODAY.

THERE ARE ALL KINDS OF GARAGES LISTED... BUT NONE ARE VERY NEAR...

OH! OH! OH! WHA...WHU...ER...WHY...YES I AM JUST GOING OUT... WHAT IS IT YOU WISH?

I CALLED TO SEE THE CAR YOU HAVE ADVERTISED FOR SALE.

Fast Bouts on Card Tonight at Port Ewen Hall

Main Bout Between Joe Vondick of "Sugarbush" and George Lundon of Finland—Carpino Meets Montair in Semi-Final—Other Bouts.

Tonight the array of fighters collected and matched by the Duke Sporting and Athletic Club will stage a galaxy of bouts at Pythian Hall, Port Ewen, and many fans are expected to visit the function as a large amount of tickets have been disposed of. Vaudeville acts will intersperse the bouts. Eddie Scherer will do the announcing.

The main attraction of the event will be the battle between Joe Vondick, the Sugarbush fighter known for his calmness while in the squared circle, and George Lundon of Finland. Lundon is a boxer who has fought some of the headliners during his stay in this country. He came here with Harry Person and at once demanded considerable attention by the way he disposed of opponents. He may have the same success tonight but Vondick may prove a snag in his record of success as the Sugarbush lad has been surprising the audiences of late by dropping the boys to the canvas.

The semi-final between Johnny Carpio, well known in Kingston and Barney Montair, colored, a protégé of Joe Colletti of Poughkeepsie, promises to be a bout which will draw considerable interest. Carpio has displayed his ability to stand up and take all that his opponents hand out as well as to hand out numerous amount of exchanges himself. Montair has a record and desire to keep it and in doing so will have to fight hard for Johnny Carpio is out to win all battles.

The other bouts on the card prepared by the Duke organization will not be secondary to the main attractions but on the contrary all of the bouts received much consideration and the best men available matched. Roy Van Buren, the boy who has been favorably staying in the ring for less than one round with opponents of late will undoubtedly try the "drop act" with his latest adversary, Kid Buck of Poughkeepsie. "Coke" Costello vs. Kid Owens of Poughkeepsie will be an exhibition of war for the amateurs and Costello, the Port Ewen boy, is anxious to wear the crown.

Young Joe of Kingston and Earl Mitchell of East Kingston will open the program. Joe Savola as announced several times will be at the ringside and introduced to the fans. He is now negotiating a fight with Joe Dundee and in his past record numbers title with Willie Harmon, Meyer Cohen, Eddie Burnbrook and Frankie Schell.

The vaudeville will be furnished by DeRosier and Levine, "uke" artist from this vicinity, also Jimmy Gallagher and Mike Piacus who deserve a degree when it comes to producing melody on harmonicas.

The opening bouts will be governed by Vince Van Bramer who understands the ins and outs of the fighting game in no small measure. Buses will run on special schedule to the village across the bridge prior to the big program in order to take care of the fans who intend to visit Pythian Hall tonight.

Game At Epworth Hall.

The Clinton Avenue Seniors will meet the Port Ewen M. E. team Saturday night in Epworth Hall. There will be a preliminary game starting at 7:30.

"Oot" Tierney, veteran infielder who was purchased by Kansas City of the American association from Minneapolis last season, has been traded to the Hollywood club of the Pacific Coast league for "Big John" Peters, a catcher.

Referees hereafter will permit just two strikes, one before the mugging begins and the second when it is over. "Let's have a little fighting for a change," said William Waldron, senior member of the board.

At a banquet to the team he said gambling destroys sportsmanship and without sportsmanship college football cannot survive. Friendly nagers are just as harmful to the game as those laid by professional operators, he said, and he requested members of the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce to lend their assistance to the wiping out of the gambling instinct by not making any such wagers themselves and by discouraging their friends from doing so. Chancellor Flint and the team were the guests of the chamber of commerce.

Politeness has been carried to extremes in New York rings, the state boxing commission has decided. In the future there will be no handshaking to interrupt the fight. Minor infractions of the rules, such as unintentional low punching, hitting with back of the hand and on breakwaters, have called for so much politeness that boxers now are doing more handshaking than fighting, the board believes.

Sport Briefs Of All Sorts

(By The Associated Press.)

Vincent Richards has recovered from the illness which forced him to lay aside his racket last week. He will rejoin C. C. Pyle's professional troupe tomorrow night in Newark, N. J. Business Manager Bill Pickens announced today. Pickens denied the report that Richards would be required to undergo an operation.

A record turnout of 150 oarsmen has reported to Head Coach Dick Glendon at Columbia. In the squad are six members from last year's varsity shell. Observers look for Glendon to boat his champion freshman crew of 1925 intact as a new varsity representation this year.

Tex Rickard admits he under estimated the drawing power of the Jack Delaney-Jim Malonev heavyweight melee on February 4. With 1,000 letters and telegrams asking for reservations, he observes that he "had a chance to bat a home run, but all I'll get is an infield single."

The New York State Amateur Golf championship has been awarded to the Oak Hill Country Club of Rochester, N. Y. It will be held on September 1, 2 and 3.

Human Nature Never Changes

And what a delightful life these in valids lead! They are always doctor ing and increasing and complicating their disorders and always fancying they will be cured by some nostrum which somebody advises them to try; and the interesting thing is that they deem him their worst enemy who tells them the truth.—From Plato's "It-public."

Referees hereafter will permit just two strikes, one before the mugging begins and the second when it is over. "Let's have a little fighting for a change," said William Waldron, senior member of the board.

At a banquet to the team he said gambling destroys sportsmanship and without sportsmanship college football cannot survive. Friendly nagers are just as harmful to the game as those laid by professional operators, he said, and he requested members of the Syracuse Chamber of Commerce to lend their assistance to the wiping out of the gambling instinct by not making any such wagers themselves and by discouraging their friends from doing so. Chancellor Flint and the team were the guests of the chamber of commerce.

Politeness has been carried to extremes in New York rings, the state boxing commission has decided. In the future there will be no handshaking to interrupt the fight. Minor infractions of the rules, such as unintentional low punching, hitting with back of the hand and on breakwaters, have called for so much politeness that boxers now are doing more handshaking than fighting, the board believes.

"Sport among the Chinese is developing, but, considering the opportunities the present-day youth has, it is not progressing as satisfactorily as it should," he said in urging more contests among Pekin, Tientsin and other interport cities.

Football Kickers Much Better Covered in 1926

Long runs with blocked kicks were scarce this fall, so well did the kicking players protect their kickers. The longest scoring run with a ball recovered after a blocked kick was a dash of 45 yards by Paul Hill of Bowdoin through New Hampshire. This performance is further worthy to head the list of these runs because it won the game in which it occurred. Buddison of Johns Hopkins made a touchdown after a run of 35 yards with a recovered blocked kick. Black of Bates in this manner scored upon Brown and Lohr of Wabash similarly crossed the goal line of Minnesota.

The majority, far and away, of scores with blocked kicks occur near the victim's goal line. This is because teams here really try to block. Hence the autumn list of touchdowns scored after runs of less than five yards are numerous. Among the most conspicuous are Sturik's score for Yale against Harvard; Gormley's touchdown for Georgetown against Fordham; Towle of Brown against Norwich. In this manner Perrell of New Hampshire scored upon Colby. Barnhill of Tennessee upon Louisiana State; Brown of Illinois upon Coe; Collins of Canisius upon Niagara; Schmidt of Colgate upon Syracuse and Clemons of Florida upon Southern.

CONVICTS' CAMP HAS MANY PETS

Tame Deer Enjoy Life With Prisoners, as Do Numerous Dogs and Cats.

Sacramento, Calif.—"And I have walked 25 miles at times just to get a shot at one of those," a visitor at the Smith river prison camp, where California rehabilitates her convicts, said recently, as he gently but firmly persuaded a four-pronged deer to get out of his bed so he could go to sleep. The deer, which was tamed by the prisoners, is but one of many novel and strange pets which have made friends with them.

The deer wandered into the camp when it was young. Besides becoming tame as a dog and as mischievous as a pet pig, developing a great taste for cigarettes, chewing tobacco, or what have you, it also developed a liking for the convicts' cots and loses few opportunities to curl up in one of the beds and catch a few winks of sleep.

The visitor was in the camp on an inspection trip, and to catch some of the king salmon that yearly fight their way up the Smith river to spawn. The deer, who is no respecter of persons, had decided that the visitor's bed was as good as anybody's.

Pets Are Plentiful.
Pets at the camp run the gamut from cats and dogs to deer and spiders.

In the cook shack a large number of spiders have been tamed—more or less. One group, belonging to the baker, inhabits a small sack, which hangs from the wall. More than two years ago the first spider attracted the baker's attention, who caught flies for him. The baker would swat the fly, impale it on a straw and hold it up to Archibald (Archibald is the spider's name), who would do the rest, seeing that the climate agreed with him and that it was a land of plenty, he set up housekeeping and now the sack is heavily populated. Archibald, however, rules supreme and has grown fat and lazy. He refuses to catch flies for himself, but graciously accepts flies from the prisoners, who let his offspring shift for themselves. Archibald is very tame and often takes a ride on the baker's hand, or the hand of any one who will offer.

Prison Camp a Success.
California's prison road camp plan is considered unique. It offers the following startling innovations, which have been tried successfully for more than three years.

The prisoners are paid $2.10 a day for building roads, from which they must pay for the overhead of the camp and for their food and clothing. Of this amount they may save a maximum of 75 cents a day, which is allotted to dependents or is kept for them until they are paroled.

From 50 to 200 men are guarded by two guards, who do not carry guns. There are no fences or barriers around the camp. The men sleep in walled tents and are not chained or locked up at night. They are allowed to go fishing in the river or tramping in the woods on Sundays and holidays.

They are not paroled until they have secured positions and they are required to follow strict regulations laid down by the state.

Men are selected for the camps from those who have the best records in prison and who have no more than two years to serve.

During the more than three years the Smith river camp has been in operation there have been only three attempts to escape, none of which were successful, and no attempts have been made during the last two years.

The average sentence given to camp escapes is 15 years.

Says Humans Dependent Upon Radiated Light

Berlin.—That all human existence is dependent upon the radiated light of the universe; from the stars, the sun and the reflections from the earth's surface and from radioactive substances, was the object of a demonstration by Prof. Adolph Lazarus, of the Berlin university, at the last meeting of the Berlin Medical society.

"Human beings," said Professor Lazarus, "move about on earth in a bath of light, but our present state of culture tends to exclude some of the most valuable and effective of these rays of the universe."

"Men, compared to women, by reason of their modern clothing, live in an extremely unfavorable state of temperature, whereas present-day women's clothing has improved the general state of health to such a degree that the once so prevalent anemia among young girls and women seems to have entirely disappeared."

Housewives Dump Clams in Cellars to Catch Mice

Portland, Maine.—Mrs. O. W. Creamer of Cushing, Maine, left a basket of clams in her cellar overnight. Next morning she found three dead mice held firm and fast between the shells of the clams. Mrs. Creamer told her neighbor and the neighbor obtained similar results. Now all the Cushingians whose homes are troubled with mice are putting clams in their cellars and the mouse trap business is experiencing a slump.

LAST OF THE SIDEWHEELERS AT MEMPHIS DESTROYED

Flames End Career of Kate Adams,
Sole Survivor of Type on Lower Mississippi.

Memphis, Tenn.—Flames ended the romantic career of the Kate Adams, majestic river steamer here, and removed from the lower Mississippi the last sidewheeler to ply the great stream in southern waters.

The "Kate," as she was familiarly called, beloved of river folk and pet of plantation workers along her course, perished as two of her predecessors of the same name before her and left a ruin of twisted metal beams at the water's edge, to mark her final anchorage. The cause of the fire was undetermined. She burned quickly, and some of the crew had narrow escapes. To plantation people, white and negro alike, the Kate was a living creature, whose sonorous whistle, audible as far as twenty miles inland, was the signal of joyous cries. Straightening from their tasks at the sound of the boat's melodious call, the black cotton pickers with grinning faces would shout across the field: "Yer comes de losin' Kate!"

As the palatial two-stacker, trailing black smoke in twin clouds nosed toward her landing with passengers and cargo, inhabitants of the little river communities would turn out as for a holiday.

The Kate was built in 1898 and until 1922 was a mail boat. For 15 years she ran twice a week from Memphis to Arkansas City, and her reputation for clock-like regularity became traditional.

In the last few weeks of her service the film producers of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" leased her for use in their movie scenes.

The boat was 240 feet long, with a 50 foot beam, and was valued at $125,000, but river experts said she could not be replaced for less than twice that amount. A small part of the loss was covered by insurance.

The Kate Adams was owned by the Delta Packet company of Pittsburgh, of which Capt. Tom Reeves is president. Except for two years in service on the Upper Ohio river, which ended early last fall, the steamer was operated on the lower Mississippi and its tributaries. She was built at Jeffersonville, Ind.

Girl Handed Paraffin Nose Seeks $100,000

New York.—A nose—well, it's just a nose until it becomes filled with paraffin. Then it is worth $100,000. That is what Mabel C. Bain, twenty-four years old, an actress, thinks, and she has put her thoughts into the form of a damage suit for that amount against Augustus W. Pratt, Gregory L. Pollock and William Hurley of the Pratt Institution here.

"These men," Miss Bain says in her complaint, "represented themselves as specialists in plastic surgery and performed an operation on my nose, saying it would be made beautiful. This was done last January."

She charges that after the first operation five others were performed, and that during the last paraffin was injected into her nose, which "broke out in bumps and lumps and ridges until I was obliged to obtain the services of a surgeon to operate and remove the paraffin."

"I have become sick, sore, nervous, disabled, compelled to endure great pain and suffering, and have had to forego all social intercourse and stay away from business."

Prisoner's Own Trunk Blocks $150,000 Plot

New York.—The solitude shown for a large trunk of Fifth avenue custom-made clothes was credited by police with having led to the arrest of Charles Dryden, alleged fingerer in a $150,000 swindle attempt against the Equitable Trust company.

Dryden was arrested in San Diego, Calif., on a check forgery after detectives traced his movements by his trunk since he left his temporary home in Belleville, N. J., last November.

At one time known as one of the best theatrical painters on Broadway, Dryden is alleged to have stolen two blank checks from the office of the Morrell Realty corporation, owner of the Capitol Theater building, and to have forged them for $75,000 each.

Find Cash and Gems in Safe Bought as Junk

South Amboy, N. J.—Jewels, securities and cash worth $75,000 were found by Joseph and Frank Hyer, blacksmiths of South Keyport, stuffed in a rusty safe they had bought as old iron. The Hyers bought the safe from a farmer and forced it with a crowbar. The safe was crammed with stocks, bonds, checks, jewels, unused notes and cash.

Cheshire, Conn.—Mrs. A. H. Turner has a hen and a problem. Her Hodge, a Rhode Island Red, makes its nest on a limb of a tree. It lays an egg every day, but the egg falls to the ground and is broken. Mrs. Turner says it is impossible to induce Hodge to take a nest under the ground.

Flanagan Talks To Kiwanis Club

Newly Installed President of Kingston Chamber of Commerce Was Noon Day Speaker on Chamber of Commerce Activities.

E. Frank Flanagan, president of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, was the speaker at this week's meeting of the Kiwanis Club at the Governor Clinton Hotel, and delivered the following interesting address on Chamber of Commerce work.

To tell you I feel honored by being asked to speak to you, is indeed expressing it mildly. I know you do not expect a speech, or I never would have consented to appear here. You all know I could not make a speech if I wanted to. I accepted the invitation because I do want to talk to you.

As you all know, I have been honored with the presidency of your Chamber of Commerce. I realize what that means and also realize that someone more able than I should have that position. I realize that there are many ways that Kingston can be made bigger and better, but it cannot be done by any board of directors or president of your chamber, it can, however, be done by the cooperation of our citizens.

There are only a small percentage of our citizens interested in the Chamber of Commerce, financially that is, by paying $25 per year dues. To be exact, we had 275 paid memberships on January 1, 1927, and only a very small percentage of them interested, outside of paying his $25 dues. We could not have a Chamber of Commerce functioning without those $25 a year members, but still I say they should show more interest, to see what use is made of that $25. You can go out on a Chamber of Commerce membership drive, a Y. M. C. A. drive, a K. of C. drive, Boy Scout, Salvation Army or any other drive. You see the same men and women. These are all civic drives and you will find that with few exceptions, the men and women who work on these drives, are members of the Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis, Rotary or some other civic club.

I also have found, going around on drives, that many of our citizens are not sold on the Chamber of Commerce or the city. They have to be sold. I do not know whether you realize it or not, your organization thinks the same thing of you. As I understand it, there are several meetings a year in which you sell Kiwanis to yourselves. If that is so with Kiwanis or Rotary, there is little wonder that many people in Kingston are not sold on Kingston or its Chamber of Commerce.

Now, I can sell merchandise, but I do not feel so confident about my ability on selling the Chamber of Commerce. I do know that in an organization such as this, there are many men who are able to sell it, and that is my reason for coming here today, to ask you if you will not go out and sell the Chamber of Commerce to the people of Kingston.

Chamber Has Done Good Job.

The Chamber of Commerce is needed by the business men, the professional and the salaried men, of those who can afford it, we are entitled and expect their financial support, of those who cannot support the Chamber financially, they should at least give it their moral support. You cannot run your cars without gas and oil, the Chamber cannot accomplish anything without cooperation. Considering the amount of support our Chamber of Commerce has had in the last few years, I think they have done a good job. If you will go out and sell the Chamber to many who are not sold, the Chamber will still do better.

A Thousand Men Looked Over a Thousand Walls.

"That was back in 1912. It was before parcel post and the graduated income tax—the day of the five-cent loaf, livery stables and isolated business.

Every business and industry had its Great Wall of China and lived within it. Coal knew little about lumber. Lumber didn't worry about steel. Steel was oblivious to corn. Corn had no interest in coal.

The retailer of shoes in Chicago didn't realize that his business might rise or fall with the automobile industry in Detroit or the fruit crop in California.

Then a thousand men, summoned to Washington by President Taft and Secretary Nagel, for the first time looked out, over, and beyond the walls of their respective industries and sections.

They saw that business men had common interest, common problems, common duties to each other and to the public. They founded the United States Chamber of Commerce.

The business men of Kingston have common interests, common problems, common duties to each other and to the public. Let's get together and support the Chamber of Commerce.

Pivot for Agencies.

The Chamber of Commerce should be the pivot for the following agencies:

City Government
City Schools
The Churches
The Patriotic Societies
Trade Organizations
Labor Organizations
Civic Clubs
Commercial Organizations.

The majority of city officials are interested in the progress of the city, and should be interested in the Chamber, as the Chamber can handle many problems, that on account of limitations by law, the city government cannot handle.

The school should be interested in the Chamber, for the youth of today will be the workers of tomorrow.

The churches should be interested, as their membership is regulated by sect and the Chamber of Commerce can act as a pivot where they can pull together for the common good.

The patriotic societies are restricted also in membership and a union of forces is usually necessary.

In recent years, the Chamber of Commerce has broadened its scope. We do not limit our service to members only. We serve our community.

While we depend upon our members for financial support, we must also have the moral support of the entire community, or we cannot have our Chamber truly successful. This is what I want your club to help get.

The moral support of our community. A Chamber of Commerce is an organization of citizens banded together to do those things to protect and promote the general welfare of the community which it serves, which they collectively can do more effectively than they could as individuals. When a body of citizens are trying to do that, why knock them.

ELEANOR GUNN ON FASHIONS

Wool Supplies the Fashion Note De Luxe, and Paris Sees It As Replacing Silks for Day Wear.

Paris—in discussing the important fashion events, or rather movements of the season, it appears to be the consensus that the reaction from silk to wool is the most important.

There has been a tendency for some time to omit the afternoon dress. Women dress smartly in the morning, and do not change again until dinner, this being the custom at most resorts, as well as in town. There have always been interesting exceptions, however, and when tea time comes, there has been some gesture toward a more elaborate toilette. That is, until recently.

Now the tea hour is shorn of formality. One rushes forth to tea at the Ritz, at the Coconut Grove, or wherever one may be bound, without a more serious thought of one's appearance than a dab with the omnipresent powder puff. The hat one starts out with in the morning finishes the day. So it is with nearly all, if not all, that one wears.

All of which brings us back to the subject of woolen dresses. A woman who is an authority on good dressing from the Parisian standpoint recently asserted that the smart wool dress sings the death knell of the afternoon frock. The new woollens have everything to commend them—novelty, a most desirable quality; comfort, which is an indispensable luxury, because of the rather considerable price asked for wool, and appropriateness, which is perhaps the greatest asset of all. Yet, until this revolutionary movement got afoot, did one ever really consider a wool dress appropriate for anything but steady usage?

This change of feeling regarding woollens is, to a certain extent, a reversion of the principle that the exclusives will not wear what the masses have adopted. When every girl who earns the money for her own silk stockings, her own fur coats and silk dresses, wears these, the grande dame who knows not whence her income comes, and often cares less, will have none of such things. Now she wears the simple woolen dress, and pays a big price for it.

Let the furrows be plowed deep enough while the brain cells are plastic, then the human energies will result in efficiency and the line of least resistance will be the right line.

THE DAILY MEAL

A good soup which is hard to equal in tastiness, and liked by all, is:

Pea Soup.—Take one-half cupful of dried peas soaked over night until soft, then cooked until tender, then put through a sieve. Melt two tablespoonfuls of butter or pork drippings in a saucepan, add two tablespoonfuls of flour and cook a few minutes, then add a quart of milk. Add one teaspoonful of salt, a little chopped onion, one-half teaspoonful of celery leaves and one-eighth of a teaspoonful of pepper.

How to Cook an Old Chicken.—Cut up a fowl as for fricassee, roll in seasoned flour and fry a golden brown, then place in a dripping pan or roaster with one cupful of chopped celery and two tablespoonfuls of minced onion. Bake slowly until tender. The older the fowl the longer it will take to bake.

Graham Muffins.—Take one cupful each of graham flour, wheat flour, and sour cream. Add one teaspoonful of sugar, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of soda. Mix the dry ingredients, add the sour cream mixed with the soda, beat thoroughly and bake in gem pans in a quick oven. Serve hot.

Imperial Salad.—Wash and chop one-half cupful of celery, add an equal measure of pineapple. Soak one and one-fourth tablespoonfuls of gelatin in one-fourth cupful of cold water and dissolve in one-fourth cupful of boiling water. Add to the first mixture with one-fourth cupful each of sugar and vinegar, two-thirds of a cupful of pineapple sirup and one tablespoonful of lemon juice with a little of the grated rind and a pinch of salt. Turn into individual molds and chill. Serve on crisp lettuce with mayonnaise dressing.

Watercress makes a delightful salad and a fine garnish for a platter of lamb chops. It may be eaten simply with a bit of salt or dressed with French dressing.

CAST OF CHARACTERS FOR HIGH SCHOOL PLAY

The cast of characters for the annual play given by the senior class of Kingston High School this year has, in the rehearsal under Miss Tarrant, proven itself to be of the pick of the dramatists of the school. All have been willing workers, contributing of their best to the success of the production.

The part of the expectant legatee, waiting the death of a near relative that he might be enriched, and the part of his spiteful wife are taken by Emerson Davis and Alletta Davis. These two important characters are known on the stage as Henry and Emma Jordan.

Nettie, the daughter of Emma by a former marriage, being a rather silly little flirt, makes a determined bid for the heart of Ben, the rolling stone of the Jordan family. But poor Ben is destined to have but one woman in his life for he falls in love with Jane Crosby. Jane is the one sensible person in the play, except possibly that rare humorist, Hannah. Alfred Colclough has the part of Ben; Alice Hayes that of Jane, and Francis Davis that of Nettie; while Mary Cahill impersonates Hannah.

The rest of the Jordan family—Sadie Fillews, once Sadie Jordan but now a widow, and Ella Jordan, an old maid sister, are portrayed by Dorothy Brooks and Dorothy Malnes respectively. For Orin, the son of Sadie, the Seniors were forced to draw upon the Freshman class, for no member of the Senior class was small enough to take the part. Orin will be Norman Lidkey.

Louis Hermance as Judge Bradford, and Leo Doherty as Jim Jay, a deputy sheriff, furnish a little counter-plot all their own.

Your Income Tax

To be allowed, a claim for a deduction for a loss incurred in a transaction entered into for profit, the transaction must be connected with the taxpayer's trade or business, must have several distinct qualities.

The intent to make a profit must have existed at the beginning of the enterprise. Not infrequently deductions for losses are claimed through the sale of a house owned and occupied by the taxpayer as a home. If the property was purchased for the taxpayer's personal use as a residence without intent of resale, it was not a "transaction entered into for profit." A loss sustained in the sale of a house purchased by the taxpayer as his residence without intent to make a profit and subsequently rented, is not deductible. A person claiming deduction for loss incurred in the sale of residential property should attach to his return an affidavit stating the facts as to the use of the property, supported by evidence, record if possible, showing his intent when he entered the transaction.

A taxpayer who buys an automobile to be used for business purposes and sells it at a loss is entitled to a deduction for the loss sustained. But a loss sustained in the sale of an automobile purchased for pleasure or convenience is not deductible, the transaction not having been entered into for profit.

All losses are deductible only to the extent by which they are not compensated for by insurance or otherwise.

Tobacco Money

Durable paper currency can be made from the waste cuttings and stems of tobacco. It is reported from Europe. The waste from tobacco factories is first treated by a chemical process to render it tough and pliable. It is then run through special machinery to cut it into and is used as a substitute for the more costly waste linen rag.

Kentucky Has Prime Fat Boy; Is Still Growing

Curtis, Ky.—America's prime fat boy—for his age—was a visitor to Curtis. The boy is Meredith Taylor, four and one-half years old and tipping the beam at 125 pounds. He is still growing. He is the son of Charles Taylor of the headquarters section of the county. Meredith was a pair of size 42 overalls which were a trifle small for him; a size 17 shirt and a 7 1/2 cap. He is almost as broad as he is tall. In spite of his huge size he is able to get around in play as well as most other youngsters.

Honey and Honeydew

There are two kinds of natural honey, known as floral or normal, and honeydew, or abnormal, the former being made from nectar, a sweet liquid secreted by flowers, and the latter from honeydew, a sweet substance deposited on the leaves of plants by plant lice and other insects.

WITH A POINT

The man who knows it all never tires of trying to put others wise.

A brave man never lifts up a foe for the purpose of knocking him down again.

A woman's idea of an ideal husband is one who takes housecleaning philosophically.

Many a man's failure is due to the fact that he aimed too high with a short-range gun.

PUNGENT PARAGRAPHS

When money departs it leaves no address.

Consider the auto engine—it knocks nobody but itself.

Law gets more people into trouble than it gets out.

A trouble is half gone when you quit telling it to others.

No state is ever quite so bare as its legislature seems to think it is.

Quite a good many folks seem to prefer being loved to being married.

It might help us out of our troubles if we used more reason and less law.

We should judge men by what they are and not by what they have—but we don't.

The time is here when we have both the coal barons and congress to kick about.

Girls wearing too few clothes are apt to even things up by wearing too much rouge.

There is so much to see these days that nobody but a near-sighted man has to rubberneck.

Bachelors are poor liars for the simple reason that they have few occasions to practice the art.

Hex Heck says: "No matter how small the town, you kin git into jist as big a jam with a woman as you kin in New York city."—Bert Moses in Detroit Free Press.

SEVEN MISTAKES

There are seven mistakes of life that many of us make:

1. The delusion that individual advancement is made by crushing others down.

2. The tendency to worry about things that cannot be changed or corrected.

3. Insisting that a thing is impossible because we ourselves cannot accomplish it.

4. Refusing to set aside trivial preferences, in order that important things may be accomplished.

5. Neglecting development and refinement of the mind by not acquiring the habit of reading.

6. Attempting to compel other persons to believe and live as we do.

7. The failure to establish the habit of saving money.—Fulman News.

VACATION VARIETIES

"Vacation is a lazy thing."—Edison.

A wife on hand is worth two on vacation.

One coat of ten is just as stylish as another.

He who hesitates goes to the same old place.

The vacationist who collides with a horse's nest is bound to have a swell time.

A man with plenty of sand, a wide horizon and a cool head is a summer resort all to himself.

A vacation is as good as it feels, but not always as good as it looks when you are starting off.

Some people never learn until after they get home how great is the difference between a vacation and a rest.

A MAN WHO CANNOT—

Loss gracefully never wins gloriously.

Control his own temper makes a poor boss.

Manage $15 a week will never succeed on $30.

Remember accurately should never start to do.

Forgive an enemy carries a heavier load than the enemy.

Take a job into a lot of unnecessary jobs out of life.

Smile his way out of trouble is never able to fight his way out.

MAN WANTS TO TELL HIS JOY TO THE WORLD

Save on leg band after years of suffering

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 10—
"I just want to let you know what your Rosetta has done for me. For many years I had a bad sore on my leg. I had tried a number of different treatments, including Electric Baths and different recommended salves. I suffered terribly at times as my work compelled me to be on my feet a great deal. Several weeks ago I saw Rosetta advertised and in desperation I bought a small jar of this Ointment, not believing it would do me any good. However, after using it for one week I was surprised to see the ulcer was healing and by the time I had finished the second jar the banding was complete. I am glad to tell the world what Rosetta Ointment has done for me and I will be glad to recommend it to any sufferer." (Signed) Max Endert, 63 1/2 Jersey Street.

THE BROWNIE BROTHERS

BILLIE BROWNIE and his brother Bennie were all ready for adventures. A boy and a girl who had wandered into Dreamland that evening had come to pay them a visit. And of course Billie and his brother were particularly anxious to entertain their guests as best they could.

And they were as ready for adventures as were their guests. They had been busy of late and had not had so much time for play and they were quite ready to begin playing at once.

Now the boy and the girl had never had many adventures. They had lived rather lonely lives, though it is true they had made a number of animal friends.

"Well," said the boy, as he saw Billie Brownie and his brother, "you are a fat pair, but oh, you do look so jolly."

"How nice of you to say so," the two Brownie brothers replied, and as they did so they hugged each other and fell over on the ground.

"You Are a Fat Pair, but You Do Look So Jolly."

"Not hurt, I trust," said the girl.

"Not a bit of it," said the Brownie brothers, together, as they picked themselves up.

"I do believe you're Brownies," said the boy.

"You are right," said Billie.

"My name," he added, "is Billie Brownie, and this is my brother."

WHEN I WAS TWENTY-ONE

BY JOSEPH KAYE

AT 21—Brander Matthews Had His Manuscripts Rejected With Unfailing Regularity.

I WAS only two months more than twenty-one when my two years' attendance at Columbia Law school ended at last. I managed somehow to answer the questions put to me. After I passed the examination, and before the commencement at which I was to receive my degree I married and left almost immediately for a honeymoon in Europe.

"While I was still at law school my contributions to the magazines were rejected with exemplary speed. In 'The Critic' Sheridan tells us that 'When they do agree on the stage their unanimity is wonderful,' and equally wonderful to me was the unanimity of editors. No matter how laboriously I might feather my essays they were being pigeonholed; and I could always count on another swift return. With the modest confidence of youth I was but little discouraged; and while one article was vainly paying its round of visits I was already engaged upon another—Brander Matthews."

TODAY—The receipt of a Brander Matthews in an editorial office is hailed with respect and pleasure and a check is made out even before it is read. For Mr. Matthews is among the most famous of all American critics and writers on the theater, besides being a notable figure in the other branches of literature. Perhaps it might be said that Matthews is the George Brandes of this country, a comparison with which even his name is in harmony.

THE WHY OF SUPERSTITIONS

By H. IRVING KING

AMBER

OF THE many mystic qualities which were formerly supposed to pertain to amber its potency as a charm against rheumatism appears to be about the only one which survives in popular superstition. But a belief in this quality persists with remarkable vitality and is defended by persons whom one would least suspect of such credulity. Henry Ward Beecher always carried about with him a string of amber beads to cure or to ward off his rheumatic attacks; and amber set as jewelry is still sold in London for the cure of this malady. Only a few years ago amber had a much more prominent place in therapeutics. In 1896 Rev. C. W. King, in his "Natural History of Precious Stones" wrote: "That the wearing of an amber necklace will keep off an attack of erysipelas has been proved by experiments beyond the possibility of a doubt." Oil of amber still has a place in the United States dispensatory and perhaps there still exist some old-time doctors who use it medicinally.

The ancients, who attached mystic qualities to all sorts of precious and semi-precious stones, were not likely to neglect amber; that strange substance both of the sea and of the color of yellow sunlight. The Romans used to place in their mortuary urns pieces of amber and jet, the jet symbolizing the darkness of death and the amber the light of immortality. Possibly the black stone was an offering to Pluto and the yellow substance an offering to the sun-god. In the medicine of the Middle Ages, which was largely folk-medicine, amber played an important part, and, as has been said, has continued to play a medicinal role down to our own times. The reverence with which the ancients regarded amber was increased by the discovery of its electrical properties. Doctor Kunk says: "The electric property of amber was remarked as early as 600 B. C. by the Ionic philosophers. Thales, and from this observation may be dated the study of electric phenomena."

All Knowledge Not*Possessed by Youth

Dear me, with all their superior knowledge, how ignorant the younger generation, one might say the younger generation, is about some things. A new story came into the home and mother resented to read it aloud. It was about "typical" Hardy had the begun when a chorus of snail voices asked, "What's a 'typical'?" And it was hard explaining about a covered wagon, for the next question was, "What's a 'wagon'?" And some didn't even understand what a "pair of horses" was. "Never did mother have it brought home to her so lately that this was an uncomfortable sign."

And there is nothing that makes a high-school pupil feel that her mother is more ignorant than to have that same mother say, "There were no automobiles in my high-school days; we always went buggy riding." Instantly the high-school student thinks of her mother, as dated some time before the Civil war, and one high school child had the nerve to question her mother as to her experiences during the Revolutionary war.

Mother came back at daughter a bit, though. She said calmly, "There was no such thing as a radio in your high-school days; you reached high school age, was there?" Daughter said in grave that radio only happened the other day, as it were, but mother emphasized her point that inventions are coming along faster than people are—Springfield Union.

Credit for "Want Ad"*Given to Englishman

In 1872 John Houghton, a fellow of the Royal Society, contributed a weekly paper for the improvement of business and trade, and undertook to educate the merchants of England in the art of advertising, says World's Work.

First he established a bureau for supplying services to students and masters to students, carrying on operations through advertising. From this he went into the advertising of schools, houses and lodgings to let and so forth, laying down the idea of what has grown into our present "want ads."

He instructed the pupils daily by short, instructive lessons, and he took up a large advertisement page for his paper. The story is particularly vivid in the columns on conduct and character for securing or disposing of second-hand wares, for there were no Sunday morning papers in those days, with corresponding reports, and a serious article was presented around in various papers until it was worn out.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

(Copy for this Department supplied by the American Legion News Service)

HE IS STRONG FOR NATIONAL DEFENSE

The American Legion, as shown by resolutions adopted in national conventions, is opposed to any movement that would weaken national defense, not because of militarism but because it believes that the best insurance against war is to be prepared to adequately defend the nation if war is thrust upon us.

Among its most active leaders against ultra-pacifism is National Vice Commander John E. Curtiss, long and prominently identified with Legion activities in the Missouri valley, and with the commercial and business interests of Nebraska. He is associated with the Lincoln (Nebr.) chamber of commerce as departmental secretary.

Last year, particularly, he delivered a number of addresses in opposition to the unusual activity of the ultra-pacifists in Nebraska relative to compulsory military training in the University of Nebraska, located at Lincoln.

Curtiss at one time worked in a post office under civil service, taught school, has been an assistant cashier of a bank, attended the University of Nebraska, practiced law, and served seven years as secretary of the Nebraska State Railway commission.

He saw eleven months' service as a private and corporal in the World War, joining the army through voluntary induction.

In American Legion work he has missed only one state convention and has attended four national conventions. He served on many different committees of Lincoln Post No. 3, the second largest of the state, and has just completed his term as commander of the post.

Among his many connections, he has been president of the Lincoln Lions club, an organization of younger business men of Lincoln.

Training for Children to Develop Americans

Mrs. Maude R. Cudworth, chairman of the American Legion auxiliary's national Americanism committee, in a message to state Americanism chairmen sent from national headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind., outlining the auxiliary's program of Americanism work for this year, said in part:

"We must know that our children are receiving such training as will develop real American citizens. There is no more important part of child welfare work in America than to teach and train the child to be a true and loyal citizen. We are fortunate to include within the ranks of our auxiliary large numbers of the young mothers. They have the opportunity to keep in close touch with our schools and to get back of all those teachers and directors who are upholding American ideals in the schools, and who need the support of all loyal citizens.

"With such co-operation of school and home, we can gain an assurance that malicious and subversive influences shall not reach our children. Tolerance of the opinions and ideals of others, and a sure, steady, practical information will accomplish ultimately our great work among the women of America."

Will Visit Battlefields and Cemeteries on Trip

Ninety per cent of the Legionnaires making application for reservations for the trip to France to date express intention to make the battlefield and cemetery tour. Northern France and Belgium, the Alsace-Moselle district, Chateau Thierry, Soissons and Rheims, the Meuse Argonne, St. Mihiel and the Champagne sector will be included in the tour that is available. Paris, located in the heart of Europe, will be the starting and ending place of many European tours, both before and after the convention. Eleven leading tourist companies of the United States and Europe are co-operating with the Legion in planning the tour.

Philippine Flag

The Philippine flag is a flag. It is red, white and blue. The upper half is blue, the lower red, with a white triangle extending through the center from top to bottom. In the center of this triangle is a yellow sun and in each corner is a yellow star.

On Wednesday, March 30, the next session of the New York Conference of the Methodist Church is to begin. The date had previously been announced as April 20. Instead, it is to be held three weeks earlier. The place is Park Avenue Methodist Church, New York city, rather than in Newburgh, as previously expected. The Park Avenue Church has been recently rebuilt, and greatly enlarged. Bishop Theodore S. Henderson, D. D. of the Cincinnati Area, is to be the presiding bishop.

ATTACK STRONGHOLDS OF THE YAGUI INDIANS

Mexico City, Feb. 4 (AP).—Three strong military columns are attacking the strongholds of the rebellious Yagui Indians in the state of Sonora, after their refusal to surrender unconditionally. The war department believes that the Indians will not be able to hold out more than two months. The war department recently was led to believe that the Yaguis were willing to surrender, and when the negotiations to this end were suspended because of the Indians' determination to retain their arms, orders were given for a general offensive until they yielded or were exterminated.

Poison Tablets Fatal to Child

Corning, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP).—Poison tablets used as medicine in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Eames of Corning, resulted in the death of their four-year-old daughter, Louise Harriet, this morning. When the child ate eight or ten of them which she secured from the box in the cupboard. Coroner W. C. Cobb issued a certificate of accidental death by poisoning. The family came here recently from West Henrietta, where the mother is still employed.

BUS OWNERS USE ASHES ON SLIPPERY ROADS

The Pine Hill correspondent for the Stamford Mirror-Recorder writes that Merishew Brothers came over from Fleischmanns Saturday afternoon with a truck load of ashes, which were spread on the icy incline highway for a distance extending from Samuel Shapiro's store to the residence of Fred Blodgett. Their busses which make daily round trips from Kingston to Margaretville, at times during the ice period this winter have experienced much difficulty in making the grade from Pine Hill village to Highmount.

Barton's Circus at Reade's

Barton Brothers Circus will be at Reade's Kingston Theatre next week, starting Monday and playing each day until the change of program, which takes place on Thursday. The officials in charge of the performance promise that the miniature show will contain attractions equal to those performed in the big tents. During the summer the circus travels as others but in the winter months adapt the performances to theatre performances.

MAGNESIA BEST FOR YOUR INDIGESTION

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer either occasional or chronic indigestion have now discontinued the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, medicines and artificial digestants. And instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful or four tablets of Bisulphate of Magnesia in a little water after each meal with the result that their stomachs no longer trouble them. They are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Bisulphate of Magnesia never dread the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation and make digestion easy. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get Bisulphate of Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use.

Financial

New York, Feb. 4 (AP).—Sensational fluctuations in the low priced rails, with an extreme jump of 16 points in Wheeling and Lake Erie common, overshadowed all other developments in today's stock market. Trading showed a substantial increase in volume, with nearly three score issues elevated to the highest levels in two years or more. Industrial showed less general strength. Business apparently is being maintained in fairly large volume. Except for a report that copper prices were now around the lowest levels in two years, and indications of a further downward readjustment of steel quotations in some centers, there was little of interest in the day's trade news. Money rates were unchanged, with funds in plentiful supply.

Wheeling and Lake Erie common opened 2 points lower at 71, suddenly jumped to 75, eased slightly, ran up to 84, drifted down a few points and then soared to 89, as against a low of 27½ last month. The preferred jumped six points to 84. The scarcity of the floating supply and the high premium charged for the loan of the stock indicate that a substantial short interest is still "locked in" in that issue.

The so-called "Loree stocks" assumed greater prominence today, with a five point jump in Wabash as the feature. Kansas City Southern was run up 3 points and "Katy" common, Missouri Pacific and Gulf, Mobile and Northern all sold 2 or 3 points higher.

Houston Oil soared 7 points to the highest price in years, and substantial gains also were recorded by Crucible, Continental Daking A. du Pont and U. S. Steel common. Such recent leaders as U. S. Steel common, General Motors and Allied Chemical were quiet. Southern Dairies A. collapsed to a new low.

About the Folks

Mrs. Henrietta Devery, formerly of this city, is seriously ill at the home of her son, Myron C. Devery, 5 Milledale avenue, Poughkeepsie. Mrs. Devery is 82 years old.

Smile, Please, Stand.

A post card received from George H. Warriman mailed at Chattanooga, Tenn., states that the grandchild could not see its shadow there on Wednesday on account of the smoke. Mr. Warriman, former manager of the Governor Clinton, reported to reach St. Petersburg, Florida, today. After a month in Florida he will return north and take charge of the furnishing of the Half Moon, the new County Island hotel that will open in April under his management.

Captain's Dance.

The brilliant and successful captain will hold their annual ball in Monticello Hotel Monday, February 14. Music which will be furnished by Tony Turck and his orchestra will start at 8 o'clock.

Exquisite Accessories
Grace Evening Costume

This is a season of gorgeous accessories. Especially have shoulder trims captured the fancy of maid and matron. The flower which is being exploited, for the moment, by the Parisienne is the carnation. Sometimes it is of mammoth size, like the one which enlivens the décolleté frock in this picture. The glitter of silver outlines its bluish-pink fluted edges, for metal effects gleam on almost every flower for evening wear.

Evening Frocks Varied; Rich Fabrics Offered

Evening frocks are marked by a wide range of idea and diversity of treatment this year. In some of the models presented, a richness of fabric offers contrast to an almost severe simplicity of line, whereas other, less sophisticated, frocks employ softer, more supple fabrics and depend for their effects on a skillful intricacy of cut and trimming application.

Lace and georgette are favored combinations for dinner and dance frocks. Pencil's crepe georgette dress frequently had the skirts formed of lace panels and flounces. At Martini et Armand, the dinner frocks often are made in black and consist frequently of lace employed with crepe georgette and crepe de chine. The frocks all have the same blousing bodice with sometimes a long pointed décolleté at the back. Here the skirts are allowed a little more fantasia and are sometimes formed of two gathered flounces.

Choker Scarf Is Among Most Popular Fashions

The well-dressed woman isn't wearing cheaply printed scarfs of chiffon or crepe de chine. She searches for a scarf which has just the desired color contrast required for the gown with which it is to be worn. She wants good material and beautifully blended colorings. Therefore she chooses taffeta, radium or a heavy crepe de chine for day wear. Small choker lengths are quite popular at present and due to their softness they must be worn correctly if smartness is achieved. Usually these chokers have embroidered or printed ends. They may be worn tied in a double knot at one side of the neck or folded and worn as a stock with the tailored suit. Radium silk has a still texture similar to taffeta and is much softer about the neck than taffeta.

Imitation Diamonds of Crystal or Sapphires

Imitation diamonds of rock crystal or white sapphires are in a fair way to become as unashamedly good form as artificial pearls have become. The wide bracelet of diamonds, when possible, or of rhinestones almost as acceptably when diamonds are out of the question, has become an indispensable adjunct to the afternoon and evening toilette of the well-dressed Parisienne. When first introduced, these bracelets were solidly paved with brilliant with a pattern in enamel or colored stones imposed upon this shimmering surface. Now this style is sharing honors with bracelets made in the ordinary manner—with the brilliant merely accenting the intricacies of the pierced metal foundation. The glitter is the thing.

Two-Color Leathers Are Used for Motor Coats

Leather motor coats, formerly brown, ugly and useful, combine brightness and novelty as worn by the English woman. Some are lined with fleece and beautified with a deep brown and collar of plaited leather. A blue leather coat with trimmings of black and white leather in a checker-board effect is another version. Sometimes the coats are made in two-color leathers, while others have the plaiting in contrasting colors.

Neck Frills

Fancy neckwear is being exploited by some of the shops. Collars and frills made to fit a neck of any shape are being shown in cascade lines, with and in metal cloth, which is a distinctly American style. A French woman's idea of the neck finish of a frock is white—satin, lace, net, georgette or chiffon.

Pearl Fastenings

Pearl buckles have returned to favor and serve as fastenings for jewelry and velvet frocks, and sometimes on the more fragile fabrics like chiffon.

No New Information

Flowers credited by experts in Boston to show that backwaters are involved in more than half of all the highway accidents. Which, after all, is merely another way of saying that you must have the Sun. Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Grange Opposes
Consolidation of The Rural Schools

State Organization Also Wants Compulsory Insurance for Auto Owners—Time of Annual Meeting of Subordinate Granges Changed.

Jamestown, N. Y., Feb. 4 (AP).—After prolonged controversy delegates to the 54th state Grange convention today voted to adopt a resolution to the state Legislature opposing the consolidation of rural schools. The proposition was carried on a minority resolution which was strongly advocated by Sherman J. Lowell of Fredonia, past national master of the Grange. The issue has been contested among Grange members over a long period and concerned chiefly the authority of rural district superintendents to consolidate schools. Of 130 resolutions presented during the convention, 37 pertained to consolidation of schools in rural sections.

Another feature of the closing day's session of the convention was the adoption of a resolution to the state Legislature sponsoring compulsory liability insurance for automobile owners, with the additional proviso that the car owner may instead file a bond with the county clerk.

Numerous other resolutions were passed during the morning session, including one by which the annual meeting of subordinate Granges will be transferred from December to November, and officers installed in January. The delegates voted down a resolution calling for the repeal of the new second class postal rates on newspapers.

No action was taken by the executive committee on choosing a convention site for 1927. Several cities have applied, and today Syracuse entered the contest. Saratoga Springs wants the convention in 1928.

In the absence of Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, who was to have participated in the event, State Master S. L. Strivings presented a mounted flag to Hemlock Grange for having achieved the highest percentage increase in membership in 1926.

Society Notes

West Park, Feb. 4.—A surprise house-warming was tendered Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Whitaker in their new home here recently. During the evening Miss Helen McAndrew rendered "Kiss Me Again." Mrs. A. North gave an Irish jig, accompanied by Mr. Whitaker with his accordion; Miss Madeline Bechtold cleverly performed the Charleston and Max and Milton, two syncopators from Tony Turck's orchestra, rendered the music for dancing. Games were played and a delicious luncheon served, after which all departed for their homes voting Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker royal entertainers.

Beckwith-Jonasson.

A wedding marked for its social splendor and attended by over five hundred guests, many from this city, took place on Friday, January 28, when Miss Ruth Edith Jonasson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Jonasson of Riverdale-on-the-Hudson became the bride of Charles Clarence Beckwith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Day Beckwith of Beckwith Point, Davenport Neck, says the Standard Star of New Rochelle. The ceremony took place in the Riverdale Presbyterian Church, the Rev. George M. Duff officiating. The church was artistically decorated with flowers, palms and ferns and as the bridal party entered the church the wedding march was played. The bride was given away by her father and wore a bridal gown of heavy white taffeta, brocaded beautifully with silver and fashioned as a quaint reminder of by-gone days with a full bodice and very full skirt. Her veil of illusion billowed softly to a graceful length and was arranged in bands with strands of orange blossoms. The bridal bouquet made in a shower of white and pink roses. She was attended by two bridesmaids, Miss Katherine Petty and Miss Elizabeth Schlabach. Mrs. Robert Dibble was her sister's matron of honor. The ushers were classmates of the groom at the New York Military Academy, with Harry Selkirk as best man. After the church ceremony the guests motored to the Arrowhead Inn, where a reception dinner served for two hundred guests. The bride is a very popular young woman and a graduate of the Horace Mann School and attended the new School of Design. The groom is a graduate of the New York Military Academy and an all around athlete, holding many honors for track meets. He was captain of the N. T. M. A. football team and was instrumental in introducing the throwing of the javelin, for which he held the world's championship. Following his graduation he was commissioned second lieutenant of the Officers' Reserve Corps. He is a member of the Alpha Chapter of Delta Sigma Nu fraternity and was formerly vice president of Sigma Nu of New York state. He is associated with his father, Charles D. Beckwith, Inc., paving contractors. Following a honeymoon at Bermuda, they will reside at Beckwith Point, Davenport Neck. The young man is well known in Kingston, where he formerly resided, and is a nephew of Miss Mary A. Johnson of No. 743 Broadway, this city.

Christianity in Asia

A QUARREL between two leaders in the first Crusade led to the establishment of the first Christian nation in Asia.

After the capture of Nice, capital of the Turkish kingdom of Roum, June 20, 1097, by a Christian army, Tancred and Baldwin were sent ahead of the main host with a body of cavalry. Tancred took the city of Tarsus, which Baldwin immediately proposed pillaging. Tancred had given a pledge that the city would be protected from the soldiery and he opposed Baldwin's design. Thereupon Baldwin split the cavalry force, taking his own disgusted followers into other parts.

Emperor Alexis of the Greek empire had been astonished and frightened at the numbers of armed men that his appeal for aid against the invader had called into his realm and had adroitly contrived to divide the Christian forces in such a way as to prevent too many being encamped about Constantinople at one time. This policy left Baldwin in the field free to pursue his ambitious course without the restraint of his brother, Godfrey of Bouillon, chief general of the Crusaders.

The Greek tyrant of Edessa, who reigned as tributary of the Turks, let it be known that he would welcome the aid of Baldwin in strengthening his throne. He even adopted Baldwin as his son and invited him into the city. The Christian leader displayed a strange conception of filial duty by marching into Edessa and putting his adopted father to death, seizing the throne for himself. While other bands of Crusaders were pressing on toward Jerusalem, fighting the Turks at every step, Baldwin settled down to the more congenial task of establishing his Christian monarchy and extending his domain.

What the Emperor Alexis most feared from the great influx of European warriors into the Near East apparently was about to come to pass—they were settling down to stay. The downfall of the Eastern Empire, however, was not to take place until nearly three centuries later, and then it was to be brought about by foes from the east, not the west. The Turks eventually triumphed over the decaying civilization of Constantinople in the Fifteenth century, and became a perpetual nuisance to Christian Europe.

ORCHARD GLEANINGS

DYNAMITE USEFUL TO LOOSEN SOIL.

"The use of dynamite in digging the hole for tree planting may be helpful where the soil is dry and hard, and where the top soil is thin and rests upon shale or subsoil that is mixed with stones and gravel; it is not necessary, however, when soil conditions are favorable to digging," says F. H. Ballou, associate horticulturist, Ohio experiment station.

"Where the top soil is fully a shovel blade in depth, is underlaid with a clay subsoil, is moist and in condition to be readily handled with a shovel, there is no advantage in using dynamite. Under these conditions trees come into fruiting as soon and do as well in every respect as those set in excavations made by blasting. As the roots spread rapidly in every direction, they soon outgrow the small space loosened for them by blasting."

"However, dynamite may prove helpful in digging holes when the soil is dry and hard and difficult to loosen and remove with pick and shovel, or even where the soil is moist but lies shallow over hard or stony subsoil."

"To dynamite for tree planting, one-fourth or third of a stick of dynamite is placed at the bottom of a hole drilled 18 or 20 inches deep where the tree is to stand. Fine soil is firmly tamped above the charge, which is then exploded, finely shattering and bulging, but not throwing out the hard dry earth. This makes easy work of shoveling out the soil."

"Dynamite should not be used in a moist clay subsoil in spring, for the blasting will leave cavernous openings around which the clay subsoil will dry hard. These will cause the soil about the tree roots to settle unevenly, throwing the tree out of position."

Wire Screen Is Best to Stop Girdling of Trees

Another problem, that of protecting trees against rabbits, will be added to the orchardist's list with the coming of cold weather. It is during the cold winter months that rabbits search more diligently for food such as succulent bark, leaves, grass and different herbage available. When winter snows cover the ground young trees are usually attacked and may be completely girdled if found to the rabbit's liking. Wire has been found the most practical and efficient means of protection against rabbits and its use in the orchard may be a means of saving many trees. It is pointed out by authorities at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois.

Repellents, such as coal tar, lime-sulphur and other materials have not proven satisfactory. One-quarter-inch mesh wire is preferable to the half or one-inch mesh for the reason that when it is set down a half-inch below the ground surface, it will also be a protection against girdling by the meadow mouse. If the orchard is clean cultivated, and without an infestation of field mice, the one-inch mesh of No. 20 galvanized wire will be satisfactory. The wire should be cut in not less than one-foot lengths and should be large enough to allow for the growth of the tree for several years.

Increased Fire Blight Attributed to Insects

Fire blight in apple and pear orchards this season is the worst in recent years, causing pomologists at the Graham Horticultural Experiment station at Grand Rapids to feel that there is some definite relationship between the percentage of bloom in the spring and the prevalence of the blight in midseason.

The worst infections are in orchards which bloomed heavily last spring. Blooms that did not bloom have little or no blight.

Spread of the disease is attributed to insects which carry germs from infected blossoms to other trees as they gather honey.

Horticultural Facts

The locust tree is a legume.

One can weaken a tree by pruning it too much.

Dry, unbleached wood shavings furnish peat to the soil and benefit it in other ways.

New York planted 12,000,000 trees last spring. The object is to supply timber and recreation grounds for the future.

Leading farm machinery is bad business. It generally comes back in poor shape and just at the time that you want to use it.

Cocklebur are annual plants, which means that they must grow each year from the seed.

Gathering vegetables, flowers, fruit and so on as soon as they are ready for use encourages longer bearing.

For a new strawberry patch to be planted next spring the best location is a piece of well-drained clover and plowed this fall. Don't lime it—strawberries like a somewhat acid soil. But mulch the land pretty heavily before sowing, for the best results.

American Brains and Money Play Big Role in Building Great Temple of Learning in the Holy Land

AMERICA is playing a dominant part in the building of what is expected to be the greatest educational center in the Near East—the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. The announcement of the bequest by Oscar S. Straus of his library to this University is only the last of a series of gifts made by Americans to the new temple of learning in the Holy Land.

The well known banker, Felix M. Warburg, is another American who has given large sums for the university, and Mrs. Sol Rosenbloom of Pittsburgh recently announced a gift of a half million for the construction of the central building of the University.

But not only is American money being lavished on the great Jerusalem institution, but America is playing an important part in the direction of the University. The chancellor of the Hebrew University is himself an American, Dr. J. L. Magnes, a native of California, and until recently a leader in the communal life of New York Jewry. On the Board of Governors, also, is Dr. Nathan Ratnoff, a well known New York physician who is the head of a committee of American medical men who have undertaken to build the Medical Department of the University.

Within the past month, the Hebrew University Library has added to itself two other great collections of books besides the Straus library. One is a mathematical library, and the other is a rich collection of philosophical and scientific works. Although the library was only recently established, it is already the largest in the Near East. Arab scholars as well as Jews are making constant use of its shelves.
